GUJARAT'S RURAL SANITATION REVOLUTION

A BLUEPRINT FOR A CLEANER, HEALTHIER INDIA

In the heartland of Mahatma Gandhi's birthplace, a quiet yet transformative revolution is underway – one that embodies his enduring vision of a "Clean India." Launched on his 150th birth anniversary, the Swachh Bharat Mission (Grameen) has found its truest expression in Gujarat. From addressing the deep-seated sanitation challenges to spearheading innovative waste management solutions, Gujarat's journey is a story of resilience, collaboration, and unwavering commitment to dignity and sustainability. This is more than a sanitation success story – it is a blueprint for a cleaner, healthier future where every rural household stands as a pillar of change.

THE VISION AND FOUNDATION OF SWACHH BHARAT MISSION (GRAMEEN)

When Hon'ble Prime Minister Shri Narendra Modi launched the Swachh Bharat Mission (SBM) on October 2, 2014, the goal was ambitious yet essential — to make India open defecation-free (ODF) and improve overall sanitation infrastructure. This mission aimed to transform lives by ensuring that every rural household had access to a toilet and adequate waste management systems. It was a clarion call to uplift hygiene standards, reduce health risks, and restore the dignity of millions of rural citizens.

For Gujarat, the mission held particular significance. As the birthplace of Mahatma Gandhi, who believed that "Cleanliness is next to godliness," the state embraced this mission as a moral and developmental imperative. The rural landscape of Gujarat presented a mixture of challenges: traditional sanitation practices, lack of infrastructure, and deep-rooted societal
