PIONEERING EXCELLENCE IN HEALTHCARE AT HARTEJ HOSPITAL, AMRITSAR

Dr Harmohinder Singh Nagpal, a renowned surgeon, President of Association of Surgeons of India (Punjab State Chapter), and founder of Hartej Hospital in Amritsar, has dedicated his life to transforming healthcare in Punjab. Alongside his wife, Dr Tejinder Kaur Nagpal, he established the hospital in 1989 with a mission to deliver top-tier medical services grounded in compassion and care. Over the decades, Hartej Hospital has grown into a distinguished healthcare institution, earning the prestigious NABH accreditation and becoming a beacon of hope for countless patients.

A DREAM ROOTED IN SERVICE

Hartej Hospital is more than a medical facility; it is a symbol of the shared vision of Dr Nagpal and his wife. The hospital's name is a blend of 'Har' from Dr Harmohinder and 'Tej' from Dr Tejinder, embodying their joint commitment to healthcare excellence. This partnership began with a desire to shift the focus of medical practice from a profit-driven approach to one that prioritizes empathy and patient welfare.

"When we started, it was a modest initiative, but our vision was clear: to create a healthcare system that treats every patient as family," recalls Dr Nagpal.

Today, Hartej Hospital stands as a 100-bed multi-specialty facility in Ranjit Avenue, a testament to their unwavering dedication and leadership.
