HOLIDAY SEASON TIPPLES

A couple of new spirits that have hit the market in time for the winter vacation are sure to get you into a celebratory mood

A MASTERPIECE FROM SCOTLAND TO YOUR GLASS

Recently released by Allied Blenders and Distillers Limited (ABD), the ARTHAUS Collective Blended Malt Scotch Whisky is an artful blend of some of the best Scotch single malts. These malts have been sourced from the storied whisky regions of the Scottish Highlands and Speyside—and you can tell in the taste. Every sip invites you to explore rolling hills, misty glens, and centuries-old distilleries—making it the perfect companion for the upcoming holiday season.

ARTHAUS Collective Blended Malt Scotch Whisky celebrates both the artistry of blending and the precision of design. The Highlands impart bold, rich character to the whisky, a reflection of the region's wild landscapes and centuries-old distilling practices. And from Speyside, the whisky acquires a smooth, refined elegance, inspired by the region's soft waters and meticulous craftsmanship. Together, these flavours have converged in perfect harmony, resulting in a whisky of exceptional depth and balance.

What truly sets ARTHAUS apart is its ability to combine the worlds of art and whisky. The concept of "Art. Bottled" captures the essence of creativity that defines this unique whisky.

The Flavour Voyage

The proof, of course, is in the tasting. ARTHAUS begins with the bright, refreshing notes of vanilla and citrus, offering an invigorating start that feels as crisp and refreshing as a Scottish morning. As the whisky unfolds, smooth layers of honey and dried fruits evoke the comforting warmth of a fireside retreat, creating a beautifully balanced middle that feels both indulgent and inviting. Finally, the journey culminates in a warm, nutty finish with subtle hints of spice that linger on the tongue, leaving behind a memory as rich and enduring as Scotland's storied whisky tradition. It's an approachable yet sophisticated whisky, perfect for both connoisseurs and those new to the spirit.
