ART

EMERGING ARTISTS IN FOCUS

In its current edition, the Delhi Contemporary Art Week continues its mission of showcasing young talent

The seventh edition of the Delhi Contemporary Art Week (DCAW) is being held at Bikaner House between August 31 and September 4, with a preview scheduled for the evening of August 30. Six galleries from the capital are participating: Blueprint 12, Exhibit 320, Gallery Espace, Latitude 28, Shrine Empire and Vadehra Art Gallery.

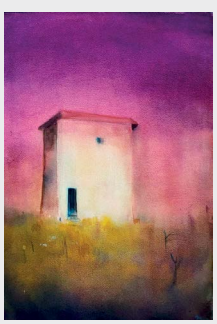

The galleries' individual exhibitions of Indian and South Asian artists will be complemented by two thematic exhibitions. Threads That Bare brings together works from 14 artists across the six galleries, each drawing from India's rich and diverse textile traditions. A Bold Step Sideways, highlighting works that subvert conventional ideas about art and history, has been curated by Girish Shahane. Shahane and Teesta Bhandare will also lead a public walk-through on August 31 (11 am), co-hosted by Art Mumbai.

Speaking about the event during a telephonic interview, Bhavna Kakar, founder and director at Latitude 28, says, "This is a coming together of like-minded gallerists who want to showcase the best of contemporary art from their

INTRICATE IMPRINTS
(Clockwise from top) Zahra Mansoor's 'Father, Son' (diptych), Sujith S.N.'s Untitled (Series Prelude), Harold Paule's Untitled (oil pastels and acrylic pen on paper) and Susanna Inglada's 'Pacto' (charcoal acrylic and pastel on coloured paper)

EXHIBITION

SITE OF M

A new exhibition explores how memories act as powerful tokens in shaping our understanding of the world

Paysages Politisés (French, 'politicised landscapes')—the curatorial direction of Art and Charlie's new exhibition is self-evident from its title. Consider Karachi-born artist Zahra Mansoor whose practice investigates femininity, post-colonialism, and the concept of nostalgia that comes from living in