Q SHOULD INDIA BAN MORE CHINESE GOODS IN RESPONSE TO CHINA'S BORDER INCURSIONS?

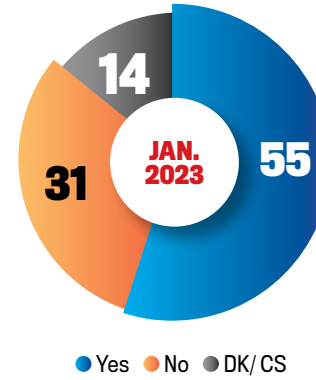

78%

RESPONDENTS ARE HAPPY WITH MODI GOVERNMENT'S HANDLING OF BORDER INCURSIONS FROM CHINA

deficit with Beijing crossed the $100 billion mark for the first time. Over 80 per cent of MOTN respondents believe that India should ban Chinese goods. Only 11 per cent support trade with China.

One of India's constant foreign policy obstacles is its troubled ties with Pakistan. Recently, in an interview with Dubai-based Al-Arabiya television, Pakistan PM Shehbaz Sharif offered peace talks to India. Pakistan has "learnt its lessons" from wars with India, he said. However, a day later, Sharif's office added that for talks, India would first have to restore Article 370 in Kashmir. India responded by reiterating its consistent position—for talks, there should be a conducive atmosphere without terrorism. Similar sentiments are shared by respondents, as nearly 53 per cent oppose talks with Pakistan, echoing a similar 56 per cent in August 2022. Only 35 per cent disagree. The Shehbaz Sharif-led government has not differed from the Imran Khan regime in its India policy. However, the February 2021 ceasefire on the LoC has held. But, with unabated support to terror networks in Kashmir, Pakistan continues to wage a 'proxy war' against India. ■
