TWITTER WAR

Narendra Modi vs Rahul Gandhi

While Rahul Gandhi is streets behind him in terms of followers and frequency of posts, he gains nearly double the likes and retweets PM Modi gets

TOTAL TWEETS (Since joining)

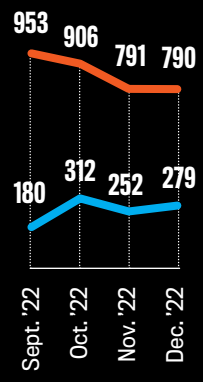

35,200 | 6,700

MOST USED HASHTAG (Last 2,200 posts)

#MannKiBaat (88 times)

#BharatJodoYatra (39 times)

MONTHLY NEW FOLLOWERS GAINED SINCE BHARAT JODO YATRA (in '000)

POSTING FREQUENCY (Last 2,200 posts) Tweets per day

10 | 2

NO. OF FOLLOWERS (Since joining)

84.9 mn | 22.6 mn

AVERAGE LIKES (Since joining)

21,919 | 41,260

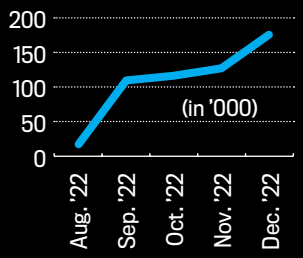

AVERAGE RETWEETS (Since joining)

4,299 | 9,941

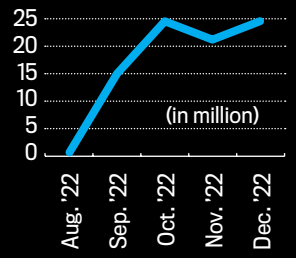

THE VISUAL OUTREACH

Rahul Gandhi's YouTube channel has substantially gained after the launch of Bharat Jodo Yatra

MONTHLY NEW SUBSCRIBERS

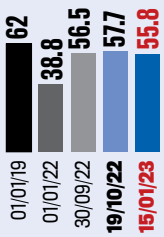

MONTHLY VIEWS

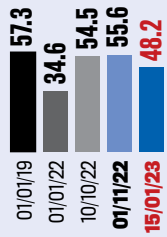

Sources: Social Blade, Similar web, Truthnest; compiled by Aakash Sharma

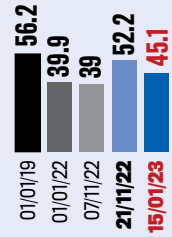

KARNATAKA

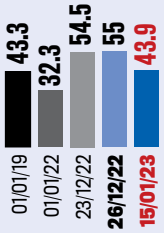

TELANGANA

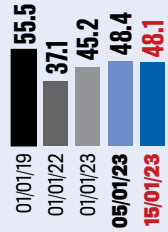

MAHARASHTRA

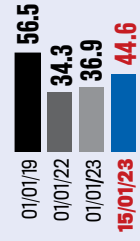

DELHI

UTTAR PRADESH

PUNJAB

All figures in %

Despite the early hour, men, women and even children have lined up to catch a glimpse of Rahul, waving their hands furiously to grab his attention. The Congress leader occasionally invites some of them to join him, handing out sweets to children and chatting with their parents. Among them is 16-year-old Sukriti who bunked her pre-board examination to come and get Rahul's signature on a photo of her grandparents who are Congress supporters but couldn't make it. There are also lawyers Nikita Sonavane, 30, and Mrinalini Ravindranath, 28, who have travelled from Bhopal to brief Rahul about their campaign to permit the culling of protected wild boars that are proliferating in many states and destroying the crops of farmers. Rahul listens to them intently, all the while walking and waving to the crowds, and exchanges his views on wildlife and the plight of tribal communities around forests. After walking for some four hours, the entire yatra halts and takes a break till 3 pm before setting out again for another four hours, traversing 28 kilometres in all. The yatris then retire to their camps for dinner and a night's rest before starting early in the morning again.

CONGRESS NEEDS TO WIN IN MP, RAJASTHAN, KARNATAKA AND CHHATTISGARH TO REGAIN ITS LEGITIMACY AS A NATIONAL PARTY AND ARREST ITS SLIDE

It is Day 122 of the Bharat Jodo Yatra (BJY) and Jairam says they have covered nearly 3,000 kilometres across 12 states so far. By January 30 when the yatra, which began in Kanyakumari on September 7, ends at Srinagar, Rahul and his flock of faithful would have travelled more than 3,200 km in 146 days across 13 states and a Union territory. It will be the culmination of a remarkable journey that has catapulted Rahul Gandhi back to the centre stage of Indian politics. His YouTube videos have attracted more than 21 million new views on an average every month since he began posting the yatra's daily progress from September. The yatra has in many ways also galvanised the moribund Congress, which had reached the nadir of its existence of 138 years. Now that the yatra, an unprecedented political exercise on foot in post-Independence India, has been almost completed, both the party's supporters and its critics have been asking the big question—has it made the difference the Congress needs to revive its political fortunes?