▲ INFRASTRUCTURE: THE NEW SILVER BULLET?

"We are at the same point of nation-building that Japan was 40-50 years back; we can learn a lot from it... Digital will play a huge role in India's future"

AALOK KUMAR
Chairman, President & CEO,
NEC Corporation India

"Some of India's finest infrastructure projects have involved Japan. The projects we are delivering both in public and private sectors are tremendous"

BHARAT JOSHI
Chairman, Joshi Konoike Transport
& Infrastructure Pvt Ltd

"India needs to bridge its infrastructure gap, which will be a key driver towards a $5 trillion economy. Railways are going to play a very crucial role in this"

MANGAL DEV
Director, Hitachi India Pvt Ltd;
Head, Hitachi Rail Systems S. Asia

◀ CONSUMER GOODS: HOW JAPAN CAN BE NO. 1 AGAIN

"The Japanese are passionately focused on customers, are cost-conscious and want the product to be highest on innovation. Japanese DNA with Indian style execution can rule the world"

KANWALJEET JAWA
MD and CEO,
Daikin India

"There is a market out here which consumes 80 per cent of what Japan produces. There are only about 1,400 Japanese firms in India compared to 30,000-35,000 in China. The potential for growth is huge"

AJAY SETHI
Managing Partner,
ASA Associates

"India's market has completely transformed itself in the past 10 years. In the coming five years, an increase in urban middle or upper income households will further drive opportunities"

MANABU YAMAZAKI
President & CEO,
Canon India
