

passengers at all airports in Uttarakhand, promoting yoga as a holistic practice accessible to all. Additionally, a Yoga Board comprising experts from renowned universities and institutes will be established to advise the government on various aspects of yoga and meditation practices. This board, consisting of nominated members and mentors with expertise in the field, will contribute to informed decision-making and strategic guidance, ensuring the effective implementation of the Yoga Policy.

The proposed Yoga Policy encompasses various incentives aimed at realizing the vision of establishing Uttarakhand as the flagbearer of yoga. Private investment will be incentivized for infrastructure development, including meditation sites, yoga retreat centers, and yoga villages in major tourist destinations across the state. Startups specializing in yoga and meditation will receive support under the Startup Policy, with partnerships forged with Startup India to explore opportunities and bolster startups originating from Uttarakhand in this field.

In adherence to the wellness accreditation criteria, the state will provide a one-time incentive of 15 lakh rupees for 5-star rated yoga centers and 10 lakh rupees for 4-star rated yoga centers. These incentives are exclusively reserved for newly established centers that haven't received any other financial benefits or incentives under the policies of any other state government. Additionally, the examination fee for the Yoga Teacher/Instructor Certification Examination will be reimbursed to successful students, incentivizing more individuals to pursue and complete the certification process.

To foster research in yoga and meditation, the government will provide a one-time incentive of up to 20% of the capital subsidy, capped at Rs 1 crore, to facilitate the establishment of Yoga and Meditation research institutes. Furthermore, yoga trainers appointed at AYUSH Health and Wellness Centers (AHWC) will be encouraged to conduct regular yoga sessions in schools, with reimbursement provided at the rate of Rs 250 per session, up to a maximum of 3 sessions per day.
