putative challenger to Modi, even though, at 21.3 per cent, he does top the list of Opposition leaders best suited to lead the tottering Indian National Developmental Inclusive Alliance or I.N.D.I.A. He is ahead of Arvind Kejriwal (17.4 per cent) and Mamata Banerjee (16.5 per cent). But the boost Rahul got after his first Bharat Jodo Yatra that ended in January 2023 seems to be waning. In August 2023, close to 52 per cent had rated his performance as an Opposition leader as outstanding or good. That has now dwindled to 39 per cent. The Congress vote share is down by 1.4 percentage points at 18.9 per cent, with wins predicted only in 71 seats.

The gap between Modi and Rahul as PM probables is a 41.1-percentage point Grand Canyon, from 14 percentage points in Aug. 2021

I.N.D.I.A. UNDONE

Modi couldn't resist taunting Rahul and the Congress when he told the Opposition benches in Parliament, "Leaders have changed, but there is one party that insists on playing the old tape recorder with the same old tune and beat and no fresh music. This is an election year; you could have worked a little harder, brought something new to give a message to the public, but you failed in that too. Should I teach you how to do it?" More bad news for the Opposition came when Nitish Kumar exited I.N.D.I.A. and joined hands with the BJP again. Almost 46 per cent of the respondents believe that his departure has dealt a body blow to the alliance's chances of defeating the ruling NDA.
