"Religion has been an anchor in an uncertain, post-Covid world"

THE RAM TEMPLE DIRECTLY LINKS to an assertion of 'Indianness' and a reclamation of identity. This specially assumes significance in a globalised world where we have to encounter diffuse identities, transient borders and fluidity. This sense of rootedness builds faith and a strong sense of nationalism. There is a sense of religiosity in the younger generation. Religion has provided a support and is an anchor, especially in an uncertain, post-Covid world. In all this chaos triggered by alienation and the bombardment of social media, it is a fulcrum that gives meaning to life, a panacea for the existential angst of Generation Z. Lord Ram has emerged as a divine icon of contemporary India—noble and upright with a sense of integrity who sacrificed all to uphold tradition and values. Qualities that endear him to the elite, middle class and the subaltern.

"The Ram temple is a symbol of a modern, self-reliant India, but one with an ancient value system"

I AM ELATED AND humbled. We were all waiting for decades for this historical moment. No one even imagined that we will see this historic day in our lifetime, but a wait of over five hundred years has ended today, all thanks to the decisive leadership of PM Modi. The Ram temple is a symbol of India, a modern and self-reliant India but one with an ancient value system. It epitomises the spiritual power of our country and will be an inspiration for coming generations.
