Dedicated Caregiver

IF THERE'S ONE THING Suneeta Reddy sees as her goal in her job as managing director of Apollo Hospitals, it's keeping the chain at the forefront of healthcare services and expanding its footprint in and outside India. As a daughter of Apollo Hospitals founder Dr Prathap C. Reddy, it remains a personal quest. "Perhaps the most compelling moment was when my father entrusted me with the finances of a young, yet ambitious enterprise. That act of faith gave me the confidence that I could do more," she says. Suneeta redeemed that trust by pioneering the inflow of FDI into Indian healthcare in 1995. She followed it up with another industry first—taking Apollo to the international equity markets in 2005.

ACCOMPLISHMENT

Her role in pioneering FDI in Indian healthcare transformed the sector

Over the years, many novelties in Indian healthcare carried an Apollo signature. From designing India's first master health checkup and bringing the first proton therapy solution to creating the largest chain of pharmacies—all this is rooted in Apollo's commitment to serving patients. "It is humbling to note the immense growth we've achieved over four decades, from a 150-bed hospital in Madras to the largest integrated healthcare provider today," says Suneeta. Apollo's spread is staggering: 72 hospitals, nearly 6,000 pharmacies, over 200 clinics, 150 telemedicine centres and 25 million plus users on the Apollo 24x7 online store.

Suneeta says that her father's unwavering passion for bringing the best healthcare to people has been the greatest source of inspiration for her and her three sisters. "He has ensured we all realise our potential to the organisation, and it is this synergy between us as a family that has been pivotal to our expansion and success," she says. She is equally optimistic about the way forward. "My professional career has been a string of pearls, a journey...many chapters of which are still to come." ■

–Amarnath K. Menon

Suneeta Reddy, 65

Managing Director, Apollo Hospitals

RA CHANDROO

ADVICE TO WOMEN

"Doing good and doing well is not a zero-sum game. There is immense value in earning people's trust by doing the right thing"

↘ INSPIRATION

Her father Dr Prathap C. Reddy, founder-chairman, Apollo

↘ CHILL SPOTS

London (with sisters and friends); Kodaikanal (with family)

↘ PALATE FAVES

"All the wrong stuff": chaat and pizza