FAST MOVER

INCLUSIVE AGENDA

"Women represent 47 per cent of our total workforce at GCPL, but only 25 per cent of senior leadership. We are making targeted efforts to take this up to 30 per cent in senior leadership..."

↘ PASSIONATE ABOUT
Education, the human mind, trekking and equestrian sports

↘ WHAT SHE LOVES MORE THAN ANYTHING
A Sunday morning run on Juhu beach observing people walking their dogs, talking, sharing, playing with their children and drinking tender coconut water

Nisaba Godrej, 45
Executive Chairperson, Godrej Consumer Products

ACCOMPLISHMENT
Has led the company to venture into newer categories with the potential for 'double-digit multi-decade growth'

NISABA GODREJ IS SET TO MAKE BOLD MOVES to drive the Godrej Consumer Products (GCPL), valued at $12 billion (Rs 99,818 crore), forward. In May, the 125-year-old Godrej Group's consumer goods flagship announced the acquisition of the FMCG business of Raymond Consumer Care, a leading player in deodorants and sexual wellness categories in India with brands such as Park Avenue and KamaSutra, for Rs 2,825 crore. The rationale behind this strategic move was to venture into newer categories with the potential for "double-digit multi-decade growth," Nisaba said in the company's annual report.

This inorganic growth strategy is built on the company's earlier success with the acquisition of the Goodknight and HIT brands in 1994 from Transelektra. Today, GCPL's household insecticides business is valued at Rs 30,000 crore. "I hope we can tell the stories of the choices we are making today with similar pride when we look back on them a few decades later," says Nisaba, who has a B.Sc. from the Wharton School and an MBA from Harvard Business School.

The big hits that delivered double-digit growth in the previous fiscal were the hair colour and air freshener categories in India and the FMCG business in Africa. The company also introduced value packs such as Rs 15 Godrej Expert Rich Crème, to improve the brand's accessibility and affordability.

A strong proponent of equity, GCPL has become a leader in inclusion, extending beyond gender to embrace LGBTQI, people with disabilities, and even different ethnicities. GCPL stands out as one of the few companies boasting gender equality on its board. Last year, it elevated the representation of women to 50 per cent, comprising six female board members.

Nisaba lives in Mumbai with her children Zoran and Aidan. As per her LinkedIn post, one of her "life's greatest gifts" was growing up near Juhu beach. "My father encouraged a love of adventure and the outdoors. I remember riding horses bareback and swimming long distances in the sea," she wrote. That love for adventure has seeped into her business decisions too. ■ –Sonal Khetarpal