HARITA VASIREDDI:
STEERING VIMTA LABS TO NEW HORIZONS IN CONTRACT RESEARCH & TESTING

Harita, who's first job in 1996 was being an assistant to the Managing Director, has been steering India's largest contract research and testing organization since she took the reins in year 2013 from her father, Dr. S P Vasireddi, the founder of Vimta Labs. On her watch in the last decade, VIMTA close to tripled its topline with INR 320 Cr, through diversification of its services and expansion of its customer footprint globally.

VIMTA, estd., in 1984, offers a rare bouquet of high-end technology enabled scientific services to bio/pharmaceutical, food, medical devices, and electronics industries supporting their product development and quality assessment needs. Its services also include clinical diagnostics and environmental testing.

Harita plans to grow the company to INR 1000 Cr by 2030 by ramping up capacities, diversifying into integrated higher value services and newer geographies. Hitching a ride on India's travel to $5 trillion economy, Harita believes the demand will swell significantly for research and testing laboratories, as not only the domestic market for quality medicine, food and lifestyle products will grow due to strong regulatory enforcements and consumer demand, but India will also develop and integrate further with other global economies to support their needs for quality products.

She says, "To capture the opportunities and sustainably grow the company, our focus will be on continuously, building the team and its capabilities, engaging our customers with superior service, and unlocking the potential of technology to enable deeper scientific evaluations of materials and products."

"Today and in the unfolding future, it is the contract research and testing laboratories with a strong quality and integrity culture who will retain the trust of their customers and stand to grow. This is deeply believed by VIMTA's management, and we lead this culture, by fostering it through transparent processes and governance."

VIMTA has come a long way from being a single bench laboratory that literally started its journey in a garage. It is one of the rare laboratories which is publicly listed and traded on the NSE and BSE stock exchanges with a market cap of roughly INR 1000 Cr. It's an Indian origin company that competes against global giants and takes pride in serving customers right from micro scale to large MNCs.

Harita believes the key to her success is ability to continue to learn and leading the company to adapt to the changing market needs. She received a master's degree in business administration from Boston College at Boston, MA and bachelors in pharmaceutical sciences from JSS College of Pharmacy, Mysore. After completing her master's, she joined VIMTA and climbed the ranks to become the Quality Director, before she was appointed as the Managing Director.
