

RADHA BHATT
A STORY OF SELFLESS DEDICATION

Radico Organic Hair Colour, a pioneer in Natural and Organic hair colours and hair care, has ruled the markets as the top player under the leadership of its directors Radha and Sanjeev Bhatt. The couple has done business and lived life on their terms and in doing so have created an enviable business venture. The rags-to-riches story of the couple is nothing short of a commercial Bollywood film.

Radha Bhatt, known for her resolute dedication and unwavering support, stands as an influential figure within Radico, bringing both passion and poise to the forefront. As the wife of Sanjeev Bhatt, her impact and contributions within Radico go beyond the ordinary, and her journey is nothing short of inspirational.

The traditional notion that "Behind every successful man, there is a woman," holds for the couple and in the case of Radico's success, lots of unsuccessful years too. Married to an MBA graduate doing exceptionally well working for national and international companies Radha's life was not meant to be as full of struggles as it turned out to be. In August 1992, Sanjeev quit his job to start his entrepreneurial journey which was the beginning of a very challenging phase for Radha.

As an artist, Radha was already involved in bead crafts. As a handicraft designer, she created a beautiful and decorative Christmas hanging using traditional tiny Gujarati beads. Her unparalleled creative sense got her a huge order. The handcrafted Gujarati beads Christmas decorative hanging was immediately accepted by an international distributor based in the USA. This big achievement came across as a blessing for the couple. Seeing her burdened by both home and work demands, Sanjeev offered to take up the responsibility on the domestic front. Since Sanjeev still had not achieved any breakthrough in his business he offered to manage the household and the kids - daughter aged 2 and newborn son. The challenge in producing handmade goods is also their USP. Carefully handcrafting each piece was going to be time-consuming. The couple did not want to miss their first big business opportunity however with two young kids and such a large order Radha was well aware of how challenging it was going to be. While Radha could carry on working carefree, she felt a bit restless too. Though highly appreciative of her husband's bold initiative in managing the household, she was also mindful of the social stigmas attached to being a house husband. In a country with deep patriarchal roots ingrained in the social system, Radha was wary of letting Sanjeev take up the role of a househusband. Not wanting to go against societal conventions and ignore her family at the cost of doing business, she consciously chose to focus more on Sanjeev's entrepreneurial journey while keeping a low profile herself. She sacrificed the opportunity and chose her kids and provided support to Sanjeev in his entrepreneurial journey. Seeing Radha forgo her opportunity and her dedication towards investing in her kids instead gave a renewed sense of purpose to Sanjeev to try harder. This sacrifice is what laid the foundation for Radico's success.

With every bit being spent on the business venture and no savings Radha was finding it difficult to meet the routine day-to-day expenses for the family including the upkeep of their two-year-old daughter. Yet she made a conscious effort to help Sanjeev with the business.

Despite the responsibilities of the household, she would chip in with her input for the business. From using her 'stree dhan' the gift money received at her wedding to run the household to brainstorming with Sanjeev how to navigate the failures of business she has faced a unique set of challenges. From facing near bankruptcy twice and dark days to the popularity of Radico as the 100% Natural and 100% Organic hair colour brand certified in 2010 by ECO-CERT, Radha has silently been the driving force behind the success of Radico.

Radha Bhatt's presence within Radico serves as an inspiration to many, particularly underscoring the power of women in leadership roles. Radha's approach to leadership is deeply rooted in family values, a trait that is reflected in the fabric of Radico. Her emphasis on fostering a work environment that echoes camaraderie, integrity, and empathy has established a company culture that encourages personal and professional growth. Her dedication to philanthropy and social causes has reverberated beyond the corridors of Radico, shaping the company's ethos and contributing to its wider impact on society.

Radha Bhatt's directorial role has been a key factor in the company's success. Her leadership, coupled with the collective efforts of the Radico team, is poised to lead the company to new heights in the years to come.
