GURUSPEAK

"Our USP is the focus on practical aspects of media studies, be it journalism or advertising and mass communication. Our students learn as much outside the classrooms as they do inside them. This stands our students in good stead when they join the industry"

ANUPAMA BHATNAGAR, Director General, IIMC

Nestled in the greens of outer Delhi, the Indian Institute of Mass Communication (IIMC) stands as a beacon of excellence, fostering the next generation of media professionals with its rich legacy and innovative curriculum. The nearly six-decade-old institution under the Ministry of Information and Broadcasting has traditionally offered a one-year Post Graduate Diploma in Journalism. However, from this year, it is a deemed to be university, which should give it greater freedom in designing its courses and curriculum that not just reflect new-age career options
