Q. What should the Union government do to restore "normalcy" in Jammu & Kashmir?

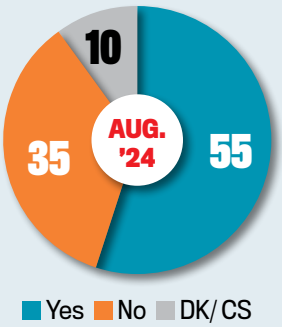

Q. Should the central government proceed with holding assembly polls in J&K despite the recent terror attacks?

Nearly three-fourths of the respondents believe that the Centre should conduct assembly polls in J&K

Q. Do you think the NDA government at the Centre will complete its full five-year term with allies like the TDP and JD(U)?

Most respondents believe the coalition government will last its full five-year term

All figures in % and rounded off; rest, DK/CS

AP

POLLING DAY Kashmiri voters queue up to vote in Handwara for the Baramulla LS seat in the 2024 general election

There is also a significant increase in the percentage of people who believe that democracy is not in danger, though this may partially be because the Opposition has emerged as a strong force in the election this summer.

So, what are the larger messages that the August MOTN throws up? For the ruling party, while Modi remains popular, the continuing rise in unemployment and prices has dampened the voters' enthusiasm. Team Modi has to focus on addressing these key issues, otherwise their distress could show up in the upcoming state polls, especially in the crucial big state of Maharashtra, which has become a must-win for the BJP. Accustomed to having clear majorities of their own, Modi and the BJP seem uncomfortable operating in a coalition. Signs of their vulnerabilities became evident when the move to introduce lateral entries into government services was withdrawn post haste after their own allies protested. The revamping of the Waqf boards and the new broadcasting bill had to be deferred in Parliament after their alliance partners asked them not to implement them hastily. Losses in upcoming state elections could further erode Modi's cult-like status and result in pressure