

NEHA JIWARAJKA-BASU/NEHA BRACKSTONE PHOTOGRAPHY

at home. For the birthday party, there were customised pup cakes, bubbles for the young dog to burst, and gifts, such as a new harness and dog treats.

"She is really happy with her life," says proud mama. "A lot of homegrown pet businesses started during the pandemic. Pet accessories and clothing brands started reaching out to us. Getting pet influencers is the best thing for these companies."

When not documenting Ziggy's adventures, the account shares vital information for other pet parents on playing with dogs, training, grooming, and general wellbeing. ■

"THE DAYS OF BEING A VET THERE FOR RABIES VACCINATIONS ARE LONG BEHIND US. TODAY, YOU CAN SPECIALISE IN SO MANY FIELDS. IT'S A VERY EXCITING TIME TO BE A VET TODAY" keeping in mind the needs and safety of dogs—a place for them to run, relax and enjoy. They are human-friendly too," jokes owner Himmat Anand.

— DR M. SHREYAS, STUDENT VET, Bengaluru

Bruno, a three-year-old Labrador-Indian dog mix, loves to visit Puppychino café in Delhi's Janakpuri West so much that his owners say he knows when the car stops outside the shop. His favourite treats include the snoopy spaghetti, chicken woofsome waffles with a sunny side up egg, blueberry bacon ice cream and a banana cupcake. "I have been taking him to the café since he was around six months old because there are usually other dogs there and it gives him