HUE KNEW

Three industry insiders share their favourite colour stories from projects across the country

By RIDHI KALE

Beiges and whites are as much a colour as blues, pinks and greens. It's obvious right? However, when you ask someone about their favourite colour-filled room in the house they think you are asking for the most vibrant one. But they couldn't be more wrong. With neutrals gaining as much popularity as bright hues, designers, architects and experts the worldover are happily playing with differnt tones and shades without getting restricted to notional colour families and palettes. That doesn't mean you can't pick bright tones. All it means is that you need not restrict yourself. So, we asked three experts for their favourites—one picked a neutral setting, another a semi-neutral space with pops of colour and the third, a bright blue accent wall.

TRUE BLUE

Project Name Gyan Niwas Location Lucknow, UP Type of Room Bar and breakfast Area 400 sq ft Colour Cues Blue Design Nitin Kohli Home

Nitin Kohli principal designer and founder of Nitin Kohli home believes in living large. When it comes to adding colour indoors, he says you can take cues from this bar and breakfast. "This space features a focal point with a textured, painted blue wall complemented by metallic gold accents for contrast. Additionally, wood panelling adds warmth, creating a stylish and inviting environment with depth and visual interest," says Kohli.
